History of Arcadia University and The College of Global Studies

Arcadia University

Arcadia University has its roots in the far west of Pennsylvania in 1853, as the Beaver Female Seminary, one of the first institutions in Pennsylvania devoted to higher education for women. In 1972, the College became co-educational and began offering graduate level programs.

In 1925-1928, Beaver College moved to its present location in Glenside, Pennsylvania, occupying an historic landmark estate known as Grey Towers, which, with its castle, stone buildings and spacious grounds, provides a campus of great dignity and beauty.

In 2000, the Board of Trustees approved the historic decision to change the name and status of the institution to Arcadia University. In the past 30 years, Arcadia University has grown significantly from a small undergraduate, liberal arts college to a comprehensive university.

Arcadia University celebrated its 150th anniversary in 2003 and thereby highlighted Arcadia's remarkable journey from a women's seminary to a comprehensive university, as well as its bright future as a highly respected leader in international education.

The College of Global Studies

For much of its history, Arcadia University has been actively involved in international education. In June of 1948, Jack Wallace, a professor at Beaver College—the institution now known as Arcadia University—took a class of 17 students to Europe for ten weeks to see first-hand the economic effects of World War II and the post-war efforts to re-build. This was a pioneering effort in a time when other colleges had yet to resurrect the study abroad programs that the recent World War had interrupted.

In 1965, The Center for Education Abroad was established to enable American undergraduates to study for credit in fully-integrated programs in Britain, Austria and elsewhere. Ever since then, Arcadia has been a national leader in education abroad.

In 2009, the Arcadia University Center for Education Abroad transformed into The College of Global Studies. It is the first College of its kind to become a full-fledged member of the academy with all the attendant rights and responsibilities.

Today, The College of Global Studies provides undergraduates access to more than one hundred programs abroad in Australia, Chile, Cuba, England, France, Germany, Greece, Ireland, Italy, Mexico, New Zealand, Scotland, South Africa, Spain, Turkey and Wales. Nearly 3,000 students from over 300 colleges and universities participate in Arcadia University's programs abroad each year. Arcadia continuously strives to provide the highest level of academics, support and service to its program participants wherever they are in the world.

Non-Discrimination Statement

Arcadia University is committed to ensuring equal opportunity to all persons and does not discriminate on the basis of ethnicity, national origin, ancestry, race, color, religion, creed, sex, marital status, affectional or sexual orientation, age, or disability in its educational programs, activities, admissions or employment practices as required by Title IX of the Educational Amendment of 1972, Section 504 of the Rehabilitation Act of 1973, the Americans with Disabilities Act of 1990 and other applicable statutes. Inquiries concerning Title IX, Section 504 and ADA compliance and information regarding accessibility should be directed to the Affirmative Action Officer, Arcadia University, 450 S. Easton Road, Glenside, PA 19038-3295; phone: 215-572-2947.

Arcadia University Mission Statement

Arcadia University provides a distinctively global, integrative and personal learning experience for intellectually curious undergraduate and graduate students in preparation for a life of scholarship, service and professional contribution.

The College of Global Studies at Arcadia University Mission Statement

The College of Global Studies at Arcadia University prepares students for lives of informed contribution in a rapidly changing global society. Through strategic institutional partnerships, innovative academic, experiential and co-curricular programming expressed in diverse and challenging global contexts, students learn to think critically, observe skillfully, reflect thoughtfully and participate meaningfully.

The College of Global Studies at Arcadia University Regulations and Policies

This Student Handbook contains the regulations, policies and judicial procedures of The College of Global Studies at Arcadia University including the Code of Academic Responsibility, Code of Conduct, Housing, Health and Safety, Discrimination and Sexual Harassment, Alcohol and Drug Use, and Technology Abuses.

A student participating in a program with The College of Global Studies at Arcadia University is subject to, and should be familiar with, student conduct policies of The College of Global Studies, the host university and their home university or college. The College of Global Studies regulations and policies may be stricter than those of a student's home university or college because of the broader consequences of student conduct when a student is participating in a study abroad program. The specific policies and procedures of The College of Global Studies at Arcadia University may differ from Arcadia University's general policies. In the case of any differences, the policies of The College of Global Studies govern participants in its programs.

Student Conduct: The Resident Director and/or Academic Director, in consultation with the Vice President of The College of Global Studies at Arcadia University, is responsible for the enforcement of all policies pertaining to student conduct and discipline at the program site. The Director may impose administrative sanctions such as warning, reprimand, censure, probation, suspension, restitution and denial of privileges in the use of facilities whenever this becomes necessary to operate the program and properly protect the property of the university. Sanctions may be appealed to the Vice President of The College of Global Studies at Arcadia University. The Director and the Vice President have the authority to dismiss a student from the program. The decision of the Vice President on all matters is final.

Admissions: We reserve the right to withdraw a student from the program at any time if the student's academic or disciplinary record changes or if there is any material omission or misrepresentation on the application for admission.

Program Fee Payment and Refund Policies: Students must agree to abide by the financial policies outlined in the Fees and Financial Information (http://www.arcadia.edu/abroad/study-abroad-fees/) section on The College of Global Studies website. They must also agree to be responsible for all other expenses not covered by the program fee.

Property Damage and Unpaid Bills: Students are responsible for any damage to their residence or other property. Arcadia University will add any damage charges and unpaid bills to the student's account. Arcadia University will withhold the student's transcript until the account is paid in full.

Academic Contract: The College of Global Studies Academic Requirements

The College of Global Studies is committed to academic excellence and expects a high level of commitment from all students who participate in our programs around the world. Students are required to sign the Academic Contract (cited below) to confirm their understanding and acceptance of their academic responsibilities during their study abroad. The College of Global Studies centers around the world, in addition to requiring the students sign the Academic Contract, may require students to sign an additional contract to confirm their in-country responsibilities related to academic and personal conduct.

Academic Contract: The College of Global Studies Academic Requirements

All program participants with The College of Global Studies at Arcadia University are required to read and sign this contract to confirm their understanding and acceptance of the participant's academic responsibilities during the period of study abroad. These academic requirements are intended to ensure that students take responsibility for individual academic success and fully comply with all terms and conditions for assessment and receipt of the final Arcadia transcript.

1. Rules and Regulations:

You are required to assume full responsibility for your behavior and conduct and to obey the laws of the host country. If you are enrolled in a program at a foreign institution, you will be subject to that institution's standard institutional requirements governing academic and residential life. Arcadia University reserves the right to terminate your participation in the program without refund if you violate the local laws or institutional regulations.

2. Full Course Load:

You are required to register for a full-time academic course load as designated by the agreement between the host institution and The College of Global Studies. (The College of Global Studies at Arcadia requires that students enroll in a minimum of 14 semester hours of credit in a semester length program or in a minimum of 12 semester hours of credit in a single academic term. Many host institutions require heavier academic loads of full-time students. In those cases, Arcadia program students must adhere to the host institution's expectations.) Exemptions from a full-time academic course load are granted only in exceptional circumstances and only in writing by The College of Global Studies at Arcadia University's Academic Dean. Courses may not be taken for credit on a pass/fail or audit basis. Courses taken outside the normal curriculum or by special arrangement are acceptable for academic credit only with written approval in advance (before the end of the drop/add period) from The College of Global Studies at Arcadia University's Academic Dean.

3. Registration with Arcadia University:

As you are registering for courses at your host institution, before the add/drop deadline of the host institution, you must provide The College of Global Studies' office in country with a copy of your final course choices by submitting a course confirmation/program registration report.

4. Course Changes:
Any subsequent academic registration change (the dropping or adding of courses) must be approved by your host institution and by Arcadia University, and in consultation with your home institution. Arcadia University may not grant credit for courses taken without proper approval.

 5. Withdraw/Fail:
Classes dropped within two weeks of their start will not be recorded on your transcript. Classes dropped after the first two weeks, but more than four weeks before the final exam or conclusion of the class, will be reported as a 'W' (withdraw) on your transcript. Classes dropped without approval or within four weeks of the final exam or scheduled conclusion of the class, will be reported as an 'F' (failure) on your transcript.

 6. Code of Academic Responsibility:
You are expected to comply with the principles of academic integrity, and you must be willing to bear individual responsibility for your work while studying abroad. Any academic work (written or otherwise) submitted to fulfill an academic requirement must represent a student's original work. Any act of academic misconduct, such as cheating, fabrication, forgery, plagiarism, or facilitating academic dishonesty, will subject a student to disciplinary action.

 7. Exams and Assessment:
You are required to complete the course assignments and take all scheduled examinations and assessments in each course for which you are registered. Arrangements made with individual instructors do not supersede this regulation. Failure to take the required examination or submit the requisite final assignments for a course will result in failure.

 8. Arcadia University The College of Global Studies Student Handbook:
As an enrolled Arcadia University student abroad, you are expected to read and comply with the Arcadia University The College of Global Studies Student Handbook.

Housing Policy

Arcadia University and The College of Global Studies encourage students to live in housing sponsored by the host university or Arcadia-arranged housing. However, Arcadia recognizes that students may prefer to live with family members abroad or may opt to make their own living arrangements. Students and parents should recognize there are possible dangers and certain risks associated with living in particular areas. You assume any and all risks arising from your choice to live independently, including and without limitations, the risks of bodily injury or property damage, the unavailability of, or access to, quality of emergency medical care or the deliberate act of another person. Students living independently may be responsible for travel arrangements to their accommodations and all associated costs. Certain programs require students to live in Arcadia-arranged housing; therefore requests will not be considered.

Your decision to reside in Arcadia University-arranged housing, whether it is a residential or family-stay situation, is an important one. Because we must make student housing arrangements long in advance of the start of each program, we treat your choice of accommodation as a serious commitment. Since there are commitments being made related to your housing, the timing of your decision could have financial implications. Please see our Financial Information Section (<http://www.arcadia.edu/abroad/policies>) for details.

Student Address and Biographical Data

Students are responsible for providing The College of Global Studies at Arcadia University with accurate address and biographical information, which is solicited initially as part of the admission and registration process. Changes which occur during the semester in local address, permanent home address, the first person to notify in cases of emergency, marital status and name must be updated in the local The College of Global Studies at Arcadia University office.

Arcadia University verifies students' identities using their government-issued passport. Copies of passports provided to Arcadia University are stored securely in Arcadia's student record system. Arcadia University staff at in-country locations verify student identities during orientation programs.

Disclosure of Student Records

This section summarizes and comments on basic information about the Family Educational Rights and Privacy Act of 1974 as amended (and commonly known as FERPA) and should not be considered a definitive review of the act. Federal regulations, as well as the act, may be referenced for further details.

Directory Information: Students must be notified annually of the categories of personally identifiable information which the institution has designated as directory information and will release without the written consent of the student. All other information about the students is confidential and is treated as such.

At its discretion, Arcadia University may provide directory information in accordance with the provisions of the Act. Currently, directory information is considered name, graduation date, enrollment status (current students), dates of attendance and major. Student addresses, telephone numbers, current home institutions and e-mail addresses are not included as directory information but are included in lists of program participants for internal use.

Students may direct Arcadia University, in a written document containing a date and original signature, to withhold directory information. Arcadia University will comply with an eligible request within a reasonable time period, but not more than 45 days after receipt of the request. The written request to withhold directory information will remain in effect until the student directs Arcadia University, in a written document containing a date and original signature, that directory information may be released.

Release of Records: Institutions must give public notice that personally identifiable information from education records will not be released without the prior written consent of the student except as specified under the provisions of the act. Exceptions may include personnel (school official) within the institution, other institutions in which students seek to enroll, persons or organizations providing financial aid to students, accrediting agencies carrying out their accreditation function, organizations conducting studies to improve instruction in compliance with a judicial order, and in an emergency to protect the health or safety of students or other persons. Institutions must disclose education records to federal or state representatives of agencies listed in the act.

A school official is a person employed by the university in an administrative, supervisory, academic or research, or support staff position (including law enforcement unit personnel and health staff); a person or company with whom the university has contracted as its agent to provide a service instead of using university employees or officials (such as an attorney, auditor or collection agent, OCICU, ESI International); a person serving on the board of trustees; or a student serving on an official committee, such as a disciplinary or grievance committee, or assisting another school official in performing tasks.

Other than those individuals and agencies identified above, no person or organization has a right to review a student's academic record or to receive a transcript without the written consent of the student. However, institutions may release, without written consent, information identified as public or "directory information," provided the student has been given reasonable opportunity to prohibit disclosure of such information.

Institutions are responsible for informing parties to whom personally identifiable information is released that the recipients of such information are not permitted to disclose the information to others without the written consent of the student.

Record of Disclosure: Records of disclosures and requests for disclosures of the student's academic record, other than to the student, to others in response to written requests from the student, or to school officials, are considered a part of the student's academic record and must be retained as long as the academic record is retained by the institution.

Right to Review: FERPA requires institutions to develop written policies and procedures for implementing the review and challenge provisions of the act. Only currently enrolled students must be notified annually of their rights under the act, but both currently enrolled and former students have the right to inspect and review their education records, and to challenge contents they believe are inaccurate or misleading. Parents or legal guardians of students may establish their right to review student records provided the parents or guardians can document the student's dependency as defined by the Internal Revenue Code.

Challenge to Education Records: Institutions are required to have a written policy clearly outlining and explaining the challenge process. Students have the right to request to have records corrected that they believe are inaccurate, misleading, or in violation of their privacy rights. A full and fair opportunity must be provided to present evidence relevant to the issue raised. Students who are not satisfied with the outcome of the challenge process have the right to place in their education records a statement commenting on the contents of the education record or on their reason for disagreeing with the decision of the hearing panel.

Withholding Transcripts: Transcripts of the permanent education record must be issued to students upon written request unless there are unpaid financial obligations to the college or university, or other unresolved issues. The institution is not obligated, however, to provide students with copies of transcripts or other source documents from other institutions unless state laws dictate otherwise.

Right to File a Complaint. A student may file a complaint with the U.S. Department of Education concerning alleged failures by the University to comply with the requirements of FERPA. The name and address of the Office that administers FERPA is:

Family Policy Compliance Office
U.S. Department of Education
400 Maryland Avenue, SW
Washington, DC 20202-5901.

Accuracy of Records: Students who wish to challenge the accuracy of their academic records may notify Arcadia University, in a written document containing a date and original signature, of the nature of the inaccuracy. Arcadia University may amend the educational record within a reasonable period of time and notify the student of the amendment.

If Arcadia University will not amend the educational record, the student will be informed of the decision along with their right to a hearing. If, as a result of the hearing, Arcadia University decides that the information in the education record is not accurate, misleading or otherwise in violation of the privacy rights of the student, it shall inform the student of the right to place a statement in the record commenting on the contested information in the record or stating why he or she disagrees with the decision of the University. If Arcadia University places a statement in the education records of the student it will maintain the statement with the contested portion of the record for as long as the record is maintained and disclose the statement whenever it discloses the portion of the record to which the statement relates.

Health and Safety

Student health, safety and security are critical to a high-quality learning experience abroad. These concerns are the priority of The College of Global Studies at Arcadia University and we are committed to:

- the ability for students and staff to be reachable at all times

- timely and effective communication with parents and/or home institutions in the event of an emergency
- being knowledgeable about local conditions and making resources available to students while they are abroad
- safe and secure housing (see “Housing Policy” for information on students who chose to live independently)
- access to appropriate health care
- medical insurance coverage for all students throughout the duration of their overseas programs
- promoting responsible student behavior regarding drugs and alcohol
- providing support for special needs
- anticipating and avoiding emergency situations whenever possible and providing prompt and appropriate responses to those situations that do arise
- having clear and secure plans and procedures in each overseas office to ensure students’ safety in the event of an emergency

Our policies and procedures receive ongoing and careful attention from our Vice President, and our US-based Director of Health, Safety and Security, as well as from our experienced and well-trained staff overseas.

As part of our regular monitoring of circumstances and events which may affect the well-being of our students, Arcadia University is a member of the Overseas Security Advisory Council (OSAC) of the Department of State, a federal and private sector group established to share information and promote security cooperation between the United States government and private sector interests worldwide. They provide real-time security information and analysis as well as updates and background information on issues and developments throughout the world.

Arcadia is also actively involved in a national health and safety task force for education abroad. This task force works with a group of distinguished international educators to draft and disseminate statements of good practice (<http://www.arcadia.edu/abroad/default.aspx?id=5794>) intended to protect the well-being of the thousands of students who study abroad each year.

It is impossible for anyone to anticipate every contingency that might affect our students. Longevity and experience count. From our more than six decades of experience directing and administering programs overseas, we have a wide network of contacts in government agencies, among local police forces and in the communities where students are studying. We maintain communication with U.S. embassies and consulates for the latest security information. This allows us to keep aware of situations as they develop and to plan emergency management procedures appropriate to the emerging situation. If events warrant, we can quickly notify students, advisors and parents about the steps that are being taken. If the need arises, we are prepared to move students from places where they may be at risk.

When students arrive overseas, our in-country staff provides a thorough orientation about the local culture which includes a review of country- and program-related safety and security guidelines. We discuss culturally appropriate behaviors and explain how to contact local emergency services. We share relevant Department of State notices, alerts and warnings, and make sure staff members are available to respond to students' questions and concerns.

Students are provided with emergency contact information which includes an emergency number which is monitored 24 hours a day so that students can reach our staff at any time—even after office hours and on weekends. Help and support are literally just a phone call away. In the event of an emergency, our staff knows where and how to reach our students. We require students to leave contact information and intended itineraries with our staff when they travel away from their program sites.

While our staff is prepared to help and respond in the unlikely event of an emergency situation affecting several people, most emergencies are personal. It is more likely that students will need advice on finding the services of a good doctor, dentist or counselor, or help with emergency travel needs. Our staff is able to help and advise in these areas, too.

Because these concerns are our top priority, education about health, safety and security when traveling and while abroad begins when a student enrolls on an Arcadia program and continues throughout a student's period of enrollment. Information about individual countries' health, insurance and safety policies is available from the program management staff.

We encourage students to self-disclose any personal, medical, physical and mental conditions which may affect their study abroad experience on their application. All information provided is confidential and does not affect a student's acceptance or denial into a program. Early disclosure ensures our ability to provide the most appropriate advice and counsel regarding program choice as well as enhancing our ability to provide appropriate support overseas.

Students, parents, and study abroad advisors can expect announcements about safety and security from The College of Global Studies at Arcadia University should conditions warrant such information. If you are a parent, please register your email address with us to receive these announcements <http://www.arcadia.edu/abroad/parents>.

Finally, study abroad is a profoundly life-changing adventure. Concerns about health, safety and security should not dissuade you from this wonderful opportunity. Instead, we encourage you to be informed and knowledgeable about the risks and rewards of such an undertaking. Take into account the quality and experience of the program in which you intend to enroll. It will make a difference.

Health and Accident Insurance

Overview

Comprehensive health care is available in or near all of our program sites. Although many students have health insurance which can be used overseas, Arcadia provides a health and accident insurance plan for all program participants.

Arcadia's plan is offered through HTH Worldwide. Arcadia automatically enrolls all students (except those going to New Zealand) in this plan. The plan is effective throughout the duration of the participant's program. There is no deductible per injury or illness, and the maximum medical expenses of the policy for accident or sickness is $500,000.

Additional information about the HTH Worldwide plan is available online at <http://www.arcadia.edu/abroad/default.aspx?id=5795>.

Students attending programs in New Zealand will be provided with the New Zealand government's mandated insurance plan. Please contact the New Zealand program manager for more information.

Student Information

Personalized information and support for participants about health care and prescription medication is available through "Well Prepared" at <http://www.hthstudents.com>.

HTH Worldwide will send an e-mail to accepted students automatically. The e-mail will contain information about coverage, the individual ID number and certificate number with HTH. Students can then print an ID card and activate a "Well Prepared" profile.

Parent Information

HTH Worldwide also has a website which includes information for parents. Parents can go to <http://www.hthparents.com> and create a sign-in with their son's or daughter's e-mail address.

Parent(s) have access to provider information and health and safety services. In order for a parent to have access to any personalized information on "Well Prepared," they must request access online from their son or daughter.

Travel/Personal Property Insurance

We strongly encourage you to obtain insurance against theft and/or damage to your personal effects for the period of time you will be abroad. Arcadia University does not provide insurance for your possessions.

Reviews

The Arcadia University College of Global Studies engages in regular reviews of its insurance coverage to ensure that the highest standards of quality are met and that the program is easy for students and their parents to contact both in the U.S. and overseas.

Emergency Contact Procedures

Should you need to reach us in the event of an emergency, please contact our Glenside office in the United States. Our staff members are trained to know how to respond in the event of an emergency and will know whom to contact to inform the right people as quickly as possible.

During standard business hours, Monday through Friday 8-5:30 Eastern Standard Time please call: (866) 927-2234.

For non-business hours, please call (215) 572-2900. Please note that this is the number for the Arcadia University switchboard which is staffed 24-hours a day seven days per week. The individual answering the phones will take your contact information and relay it to a member of The College of Global Studies' senior staff who will reply to your call promptly.

All of our overseas offices have emergency contact procedures in place 24-hours a day, seven days a week. Our staff is able to contact students quickly and can relay information to Arcadia University promptly.

Special Needs

At Arcadia University we encourage students with disabilities to consider study abroad, and we are committed to working with each student in an effort to find a program that suits his or her individual needs. We strongly recommend that students contact an Arcadia program manager to discuss the kinds of support we can provide to help students achieve their cultural, educational, and personal goals abroad. Arcadia works with our overseas offices and partner universities to provide reasonable accommodations to students with disabilities.

Procedures for Disclosing Special Needs and Requesting Special Services:

As part of the application process, all students complete a Personal Health/Special Needs Form. On this form, students are asked to list any special need, including: dietary restrictions or preferences; physical or mobility conditions; mental health or emotional concerns; learning disabilities; allergies; and/or strict religious observances.

Providing this information will not jeopardize a student's acceptance into our programs. Knowing about special needs ahead of time makes it much easier to arrange to help and support students.

Because some conditions may be exacerbated or reactivated by the experience of living in a new country, students may want to report current or previous conditions for which they have been treated successfully by a physician or mental health professional. Any doubts about these matters should be discussed with a healthcare provider.

For students who list special needs, a healthcare professional should provide a summary of the details of the condition(s) so that proper treatment can be obtained overseas.

Supplies of medications and special items required for any condition should be brought along, with appropriate labeling, including the physician's name and the medication's generic name. We recommend this because medication in the appropriate dosages and with identical names are often difficult to obtain abroad. In addition, careful documentation equips us to assist you in an emergency.

Because we want students to enjoy a successful and rewarding study abroad experience, we encourage you to disclose all your disability-related needs as early in the application process as possible and at least six weeks prior to the beginning of the program. In most cases this will assure us enough time to make adequate disability-related arrangements for you.

If you choose not to disclose your need for special arrangements in time, Arcadia will not be able to help provide them for you.

All information you provide will only be disclosed in emergencies or where necessary for your treatment. We encourage students with a medical condition which might affect emergency treatment to wear a MedicAlert bracelet or pendant.

Course Equivalencies, Grades, Transcripts

Arcadia University Courses

All study abroad courses which Arcadia University is responsible for teaching and accreditation are reviewed and approved by The College of Global Studies at Arcadia University and the Arcadia University Faculty's Undergraduate Academic Programs Committee. The course review process follows Arcadia University's Academic Policies and Procedures – 50.10 New Course Proposal Guidelines in the Academic Policies and Procedures section of the Arcadia University Faculty Handbook: http://info.arcadia.edu/fs/AA/pdfs/faculty_handbook.pdf

In addition to being accredited by the Commission on Higher Education of the Middle States Association of Colleges and Schools and by the National Association of Schools of Art and Design, Arcadia University's undergraduate and graduate programs are accredited and approved by numerous academic and professional bodies, associations and councils. Arcadia University issues the transcripts to all students who participate in the overseas programs offered by The College of Global Studies, and is the sole transcribing authority for all Arcadia-organized courses.

Direct Enrollment Courses

All institutions offering direct enrollment courses to Arcadia program students are nationally authorized, degree-granting, post-secondary institutions that are responsible to the Ministry of Education and/or peer review quality control processes in their own countries. Arcadia University monitors these programs by means of a process that begins with the Directors in country and expands to include faculty and staff from Arcadia's home campus in Glenside, Pennsylvania.

In each Arcadia program involving direct enrollment, the host institution issues a transcript reporting for each student the courses s/he has taken and the grades earned. That transcript is sent to Arcadia University, which is responsible for establishing credit and grade equivalencies for each host institution and for translating the host institution transcript to the system of semester hours of credit and grades on an A to F scale that is used at Arcadia University. All Arcadia program students receive a transcript from Arcadia University. That transcript is part of the student's education record at Arcadia University. Students may request an additional copy of their Arcadia transcript, by mail to the Office of the Registrar, Arcadia University, 450 South Easton Road, Glenside, PA 19038-3295, or online, TranscriptsPlus™ at <http://www.arcadia.edu/academic/default.aspx?id=1023>

Transcripts from host institutions are kept on file at Arcadia University for five years. During the seven year retention period copies of host institution transcripts may, upon request, be transmitted, along with the Arcadia University transcript, to home sending college and university officials (deans, registrars, etc.), and to clearinghouses for postgraduate programs (like medicine, law, etc.). Requests for this documentation must come from the receiving institution, be for specific students/courses, and be addressed to The College of Global Studies, Arcadia University, 450 South Easton Road, Glenside, PA 19038-3295.

The College of Global Studies at Arcadia University maintains an electronic file of the credit equivalencies and grading conversion scales for courses at each host institution. These are shared, upon request, with students, home colleges and universities (deans, registrars, etc.). Requests for this information must indicate specific host institutions, and should be addressed to The College of Global Studies, Arcadia University, 450 South Easton Road, Glenside, PA 19038-3295.

Arcadia University and Direct Enrollment Courses

At the conclusion of a program, The College of Global Studies at Arcadia University will send an official Arcadia University transcript to a participant's home school and an unofficial copy to the participant. This transcript will list the course numbers and titles exactly as they appear on the original transcript from the university or program which the participant attended.

Because overseas universities have different administrative structures, transcripts may take longer to issue than they do at U.S. institutions. While the timeline varies by program, a general transcript issuance timeline is:

- Summer Programs - transcript issued early to mid-September
- Fall Programs - transcript issued in late March
- Academic Year - transcript issued mid to late-September

- Spring Programs - transcript issued mid to late-September

A student's transcript will be withheld by Arcadia University if s/he has an outstanding balance on his/her account resulting from nonpayment of the program fee (in whole or in part) or special course surcharges, any late fees or returned check fees, damage charges, library fines or other unmet financial obligations as deemed appropriate by Arcadia University.

If you have a question about the process, please feel free to contact the program manager responsible for the program. If you are a graduating senior who needs your transcript by a certain date for graduation requirements, please make your program manager aware of this information.

Official copies of Arcadia University transcripts are available upon request to the Registrar: http://www.arcadia.edu/academic/default.aspx?id=1023

Voluntary Withdrawal from Arcadia Programs

Situations will arise in which students will voluntarily withdraw from an Arcadia program. The timing of withdrawals is often uncertain and may be due to a number of factors beyond the control of the student and Arcadia, but the reasons may include (but are not limited to):

- serious accident or illness of the student or a close family member
- student's psychological problems, including the inability to adapt to the new environment
- student's inability to accomplish academic objectives within the framework of the program
- external conditions beyond the student's control

The College of Global Studies at Arcadia University will attempt to assist the student who voluntarily withdraws, and will determine the academic and financial consequences of the withdrawal.

The on-site Resident Director and/or Academic Director and the Vice President (or designate) will be available to help students with voluntary withdrawals. As appropriate, the Resident Director and/or Academic Director will be in contact with the student, encourage him/her to fill out, sign and date a Notice of Withdrawal and provide relevant documentation, assist the student, and begin the process of evaluating the circumstances of the withdrawal and the financial as well as academic consequences. The Resident Director and/or Academic Director may consult with in-country staff and the host university when evaluating the personal welfare and academic status of the student.

All of this information will be transmitted to the Vice President (or designate), who may consult with the Resident Director and/or Academic Director, staff, home colleges and universities, the student (and perhaps his/her family), and determine the response of The College of Global Studies to the student regarding financial settlement and academic credit.

Withdrawal may carry serious financial implications for the student. Specific consequences vary depending on established deadlines, financial aid status, and contractual obligations of the student and/or The College of Global Studies.

Withdrawal from the program while courses are in progress may carry serious academic consequences. Depending on the timing and circumstances of the withdrawal, courses in progress may remain on the student's record with a notation of "W" (for withdrawal) or, in certain cases, and if deemed appropriate by the Vice President in consultation with the Academic Dean, as a failing grade.

The decision of the Vice President on these matters is final.

If a student leaves the Arcadia program without permission and without having completed a Notice of Withdrawal, The College of Global Studies will initiate an involuntary administrative dismissal. The notice of dismissal will be in the form of a letter from the Vice President to the student. If The College of Global Studies receives no written appeal within 72 hours of the notice of dismissal, the Vice President will send a final action letter to the student confirming his/her dismissal from the Program. Copy of the notice of dismissal will also be sent to the student's home college or university.

Code of Academic Responsibility

The life of any community depends on the integrity and personal honesty of its members. An academic community must pay special attention to the values which define the nature of the academic life. Historically, these have included the right to freedom of inquiry, a commitment to truth, and respect for the freedom of inquiry of others.

A distinguishing characteristic of an academic community is the way it combines competitive and cooperative values. On the one hand, education is a shared task and progress comes through cooperative efforts. On the other hand, new ideas are the currency of the community, and it is important to acknowledge the individual ownership of ideas.

It is a serious violation of the norms of the academic community to appropriate the ideas of other people without credit or permission, and it is important to learn to discriminate between exploitation and the legitimate use of the ideas of others.

The most general rule is that any use of another person's ideas - whether the source is published or not - should be acknowledged fully and in detail. Since disciplines show some differences on how this should be done, instructors should be consulted as to the form and nature of the acknowledgments required by each field.

Procedures for Examinations, Laboratory Work and Written Work: Arcadia University Courses

Procedures for Taking Examinations, Tests and Quizzes:

1. To eliminate suspicious behavior during any type of examination all books, notes, note cards, papers, materials and instruments are to be left in a designated location away from the testing area, except for those materials previously specified by the instructor.
2. The instructor may remain in the exam room. If the instructor leaves the room after the initial questions have been asked, he/she will remain accessible and may return to answer questions that arise during the examination.
3. Requests for clarification of questions must be directed only to the instructor.
4. Silence is to be maintained in the exam room.
5. If possible, students should occupy every other seat.
6. You are not to leave the test area unless an emergency arises, or by grant of permission. The instructor's policies on leaving the testing area should be specified beforehand. If you do leave the room, your test paper must be left behind.
7. In fairness to all students, you must finish the examination by the end of the examination period. The examination time can be lengthened only if granted at the beginning of the period and only if the extension applies to all students. (Students with advance special permission are exempt.)

Procedures for Papers, Reports, and Other Written Work:

1. When preparing all written work, take great care to fully acknowledge the source or sources of all ideas, language, diagrams, charts, or images (including but not limited to drawings, designs or photographs) etc., which are not your own. If you intentionally appropriate the ideas, images or language of another person and present them without attribution, you are committing plagiarism. This includes the purchase or acquisition of papers or other material from any source. For specific questions consult with the instructor, but the following rules must be observed:

- a. Any sequence of words appearing in your essay which are not your own must be enclosed in quotation marks and the source identified in a manner designated by the instructor.
 - b. A paraphrase should not be enclosed in quotation marks, but should be footnoted and the source given.
 - c. An interpretation based on an identifiable source must be so attributed.
2. If you wish to seek assistance from another student (i.e., proofreading for typographical errors), consult your instructor to determine if such assistance is permissible. If permitted, the instructor may require that such assistance be acknowledged in the written work.

Procedures for Laboratory Work:

Unless otherwise directed, you are expected to make all necessary measurements, drawings and calculations independently, based on your own work. Observations, including numerical data for working out results, are to be collected and used independently.

Procedures for Examinations, Laboratory Work and Written Work: Direct Enrollment Courses

Students must adhere to the procedures for examinations, laboratory work and written work for the courses in which they are directly enrolled in a host institution course.

Violations of the Code of Academic Responsibility

Each of the following constitutes a violation of the Code of Academic Responsibility:

1. Plagiarism:

If you appropriate the ideas, concepts, images (including but not limited to drawings, designs, or photographs) or language of another person and present them without attribution, you have committed plagiarism. Great care should be taken in academic work to acknowledge fully the source or sources of all ideas, language, diagrams, charts, etc. For specific questions the instructor should be consulted, but the following rules must be observed:

- a. Any sequence of words which are taken verbatim from another source must be enclosed in quotation marks and the source identified in the manner designated by the instructor.

- b. Paraphrases and interpretations from a source should have the source identified.
 - c. Unless otherwise directed, when you are doing laboratory work, you are expected to make all necessary measurements, drawings and calculations independently, based on your own work. Observations, including numerical data, are to be collected independently.
 - d. If instructors permit you to seek the assistance of other students on academic work, the exact nature of the assistance must be acknowledged in detail. This refers not just to papers, but also to laboratory work and computer programs.
 - e. Any use of a commercial writing service is forbidden.
2. Submitting the same work for credit in more than one course without permission of each instructor involved.
3. Attempting to give or to receive unauthorized assistance on academic work, and attempting to hinder others in their academic work.
4. Furnishing false information to University officials on matters relating to academic work. This is to include but not be limited to:
 - a. False information provided for the purpose of obtaining special consideration (for example, postponement of examinations or of deadlines for written work).
 - b. Fraudulent registration for classes.
 - c. Signing the name of an absent person to an attendance sheet.
 - d. Reporting the results of experiments or surveys not performed.
5. Attempting to gain unauthorized access to exams or tests.

 - a. Attempting to look at another student's exam.

7. Failure to follow any of the procedures outlined above in regard to taking examinations, tests and quizzes.
8. Failure to sign a book or periodical out of the library or from other consortium libraries.
9. For direct enrollment courses, additional violations may be included as a part of the host institution's Code of Academic Responsibility or equivalent policy.

Procedures for Reporting Violations

1. If you have violated an academic regulation, you may report yourself to the instructor involved or The College of Global Studies Academic Dean within 36 hours of the infraction.
2. If you suspect that a violation has occurred, you may submit to the instructor of the course a written, dated and signed report of the suspected violation within 5 days of witnessing or discovering the violation. Persons who have knowledge of the violation may be summoned by the instructor or the Director to be questioned and to give testimony.
3. Charges against students should be resolved by the end of the student's program for Arcadia University courses. Resolution timelines vary for direct enroll institutions.

Procedures for Determining Level of Responsibility for Violations and Penalties: Arcadia University Courses

After a violation has been alleged, one of the two following procedures must be followed:

1. If a student who is accused of the violation and the instructor agree to have the instructor decide the case and assess the penalties as he or she determines, there will be no appeal process for cases decided in this fashion. Charges against students must be resolved by the end of the student's program.
 - a. An instructor who suspects a student of violating academic regulations will notify the student of the allegation, promptly after the discovery by the instructor or of its being reported, and of the grounds for suspicion, decision of the instructor and penalties.
 - b. Should the instructor find the student to be responsible for the infraction, the instructor must report the infraction to the Director describing the violation and the penalties applied. The student must be notified of the report by the instructor to the Director. A record of the report will be kept in the student's file at The College of Global Studies in Glenside for a period of five years.
 - c. Should the Director find upon receipt of this letter that the student has previous violations; the Director shall promptly consult the Vice President of The College of Global Studies and the Academic Dean for purposes of determining if sanctions are to be imposed.
 - d. If, within a reasonable period of time after a decision is rendered, new evidence becomes available or extraordinary circumstances are revealed, a student may request a reconsideration of the case. Such a request must be made in a letter addressed to the Director, who will then consult with the Academic Dean and the Vice President of The College of Global Studies at Arcadia University to decide whether to grant the request.

2. The student accused of the violation, or instructor involved, may choose to refer the case directly to the Director, Academic Dean and the Vice President of The College of Global Studies.
 - a. The party choosing this procedure must present to the Director a written, dated and signed statement of the reasons for the hearing within one week of discovery of the alleged violation.
 - b. The Director, in consultation with the Academic Dean and Vice President of The College of Global Studies, will review the case.
 - c. The instructor involved must await the results of The College of Global Studies' review before assessing any penalties.
 - d. If the student is found responsible for the infraction, the Director, Academic Dean and Vice President of The College of Global Studies will write a letter describing the violation and the penalties recommended. This letter will be kept in the student's file for five years. A copy must be sent to the student and to the instructor involved.
 - e. In every case concerning academic integrity, the instructor has final authority for determining penalties to be applied within the course. Sanctions as called for in the procedures of the Director, Academic Dean and Vice President of The College of Global Studies involving course grades are only advisory to the instructor involved. The Director, Academic Dean and Vice President of The College of Global Studies have authority to determine administrative sanctions.

Sanctions

Sanctions for violations of the Code of Academic Responsibility are the decision of the Vice President. Sanctions include but are not limited to:

1. Formal written warning.
2. Lowering the letter grade for the work involved.
3. Lowering the letter grade for the course.
4. Resubmission of work or additional assignments.
5. Grade of F for the course.
6. Dismissal from program and/or University.

Procedures for Investigation, Discipline, Sanctions and Appeal

The Director is responsible for adjudicating alleged violations of any university regulations and policies. S/he has jurisdiction over alleged violations of the Code of Academic Responsibility. If the Director is involved in the alleged violations, the Vice President of The College of Global Studies at Arcadia University will designate the person responsible for adjudicating the case. In the case of academic violations, the instructor has the option of either a lower or failing grade in incidences of academic dishonesty or referring the matter to the Director for adjudication.

The Director is responsible for investigating all alleged violations of The College of Global Studies at Arcadia University and host university regulations or policies. Normally, this investigation will consist of interviews with the reporting party, witnesses, and the person alleged to have violated a regulation or standard of conduct. When the person alleged to have violated a regulation or standard of conduct is interviewed, he/she will be informed of the nature of the allegation, the regulations or policy allegedly violated, his/her right to respond, and the procedures to be followed.

All disciplinary action taken should be properly documented. A written log of the circumstances, discussions with witnesses or family, conversations with The College of Global Studies, etc., should be recorded and kept.

If the Director believes that disciplinary action is appropriate, he/she is empowered to take disciplinary action in consultation with the Vice President of The College of Global Studies at Arcadia University, and local University officials, if applicable. Disciplinary actions include: Written Reprimand, Written Disciplinary Probation, or Dismissal from the Program.

The Director must inform the student and the Vice President of The College of Global Studies in writing of the action to be taken and of the appeal process available to the student, if any. The College of Global Studies may share, at its discretion, this information with home campus administration and/or academic offices.

If a student is found responsible for a violation of a College of Global Studies at Arcadia University regulation, the Director shall impose one or a combination of the following sanctions or alternative sanctions when they seem appropriate. In every case concerning academic integrity, the instructor has the final authority for determining penalties to be applied within the course. Violations of the Code of Academic Responsibility may also be subject to additional penalties.

Sanctions for violation of the Code of Conduct and the Arcadia University The College of Global Studies regulations:

1. Warning

A warning, both oral and written, placing the student on notice that continuation or repetition of the violation or any other violation of regulations may be cause for severe disciplinary action.

2. Probation

The warning will include a notification to the student that he/she is on probation, and any additional violations of University regulations will lead to more severe sanctions and possible dismissal. To the extent permitted by law and University policies, The College of Global Studies at Arcadia University may notify a student's home school and/or parents of both the offense and the disciplinary action taken. Action taken will be recorded in the student's file.

3. Interim Suspension

A student who is facing a charge of a serious offense, even before the adjudication of that charge by the appropriate hearing, may be suspended temporarily from participation in his/her program if, in the judgment of the Director or his or her designee, the student is a danger to himself or herself, or to the safety of persons or property on University premises, or poses a threat of immediate disruptive interference with the normal conduct of University activities. The Director or his or her designee shall afford the student the opportunity to challenge the evidence and shall make every effort to have the hearing at the earliest practicable time.

4. Restitution

Restitution for damage to or misappropriation of property.

5. Dismissal from Arcadia or host university student housing

This sanction will be imposed in cases of serious or repetitious misconduct in the student housing halls, or violations of the housing agreement. For a specified period a student is not permitted to reside in or to be a guest in Arcadia residences, but he or she may continue to enroll as a student in the overseas program. Home schools are notified of the cause of dismissal from the university residence.

6. Dismissal

This sanction is imposed for the more serious forms of misconduct or for repetitive offenses and entails the student's required and immediate departure from the study abroad program without financial refund. To the extent permitted by law and University policies, notification is given to the home schools and/or parents as to the cause of the dismissal.

Once a decision has been reached, the accused student shall be informed of the decision and sanctions, if any, in person, by telephone or email by the Director or Vice President of The College of Global Studies at Arcadia University. A letter will be sent to the student indicating the decision and sanctions. The letter will include a statement of the student's right to appeal the decision and the procedure for doing so.

A copy of the record of the case, and a copy of the letter to the accused student relating the decision, shall be kept on file in The College of Global Studies at Arcadia University in Glenside for five years. The record is property of the University and may be reviewed, but not copied, by the accused, accuser(s) and any advisors to those individuals. All reports will be destroyed after five years. The only action recorded on a student's permanent file is dismissal, unless the Vice President of The College of Global Studies at Arcadia University has specifically instructed such a recording to be made and has so informed the student.

Appeals

If, within a reasonable period after a decision is made, new evidence becomes available, or other extraordinary circumstances are revealed, the Vice President of The College of Global Studies at Arcadia University may be asked to reconsider the case. Such a request must be made in a letter addressed to the Vice President, who will then consult with the Director to decide whether to grant the request.

Any party in a case who wishes to appeal a disciplinary action or a decision shall present, within one week of the receipt of the decision, his or her request in writing to the Vice President of The College of Global Studies at Arcadia University. Appeals to the Vice President may be made only on the grounds that an error was made which affected the outcome of the case. The letter requesting a hearing by the Vice President shall state the basis or reasons for the appeal.

Home School and Parental Notification

To the extent permitted by law and University policies, The College of Global Studies at Arcadia University may notify a student's home school and/or parents about conduct that also constitutes a violation of the University's Code of Conduct.

Harassment and Sexual Offenses

Grievance Procedures for Cases of Discrimination or Harassment

Members of the Arcadia University community who feel they have experienced discrimination, disciplinary action, or harassment based upon ethnicity, national origin, ancestry, race, color, religion, creed, sex, marital status, affectional or sexual orientation, age, or disability have rights to grievance procedures which should both address their complaints and see that misbehavior is penalized or errant practices corrected. It is desirable that complaints about mistreatment be resolved through informal channels if at all possible. Informal procedures involve mutually agreed upon resolutions, possibly including mediation. The formal grievance mechanism exists for those complainants who feel that informal discussions cannot resolve a problem or for whom other channels are inappropriate or unavailable. Formal procedures involve a hearing to adjudicate the violations. The hearings are conducted by the Director or a designated member of the Director's staff, and the Vice President of The College of Global Studies at Arcadia University. In either the informal or formal hearings, the accused and the accuser need not be present at the same time as determined by the Hearing Officer.

Sexual Harassment

Sexual Harassment is a violation of Title VII of the Civil Rights Act of 1964 for employees and Title IX of the 1972 Education Amendments for students. Whether it occurs in individual relationships or in the classroom, such behavior is unacceptable and is a violation of policy.

Sexual harassment is defined as unwelcome sexual advances, requests for sexual favors, and other verbal and physical conduct of a sexual nature:

1. When submission to such conduct is made a condition of an individual's academic standing or employment;
2. When submission or rejection of such conduct is used as a basis for decisions affecting an individual's academic standing or employment;
3. Where such conduct has the purpose or effect of unreasonably interfering with an individual's performance on the job or in the classroom, or creating an intimidating, hostile, abusive, demeaning or offensive academic, living or working environment.

If you feel you have been the victim of sexual harassment, you have the right to initiate a complaint. Those accused of sexual harassment have the right to defend themselves. Efforts will be made to maintain the confidentiality of both the accuser and the accused and to resolve the dispute in a timely fashion while maintaining elements of a fair process, including the right of the accused to be informed of the identity of the accuser at the earliest appropriate point in the process.

Procedures for informal resolution of complaints and for formal grievances are contained in the University's Affirmative Action Policies and Procedures. Complainants are encouraged to work with the University's grievance policy and procedures before involving an outside agency. The University reserves the right to investigate serious allegations in the absence of formal complaints and to take appropriate action.

Any disciplinary action requires a fair process and consistency with other policies of The College of Global Studies at Arcadia University. Retaliation for bringing complaints is prohibited and is a violation of policy. If the complaint is unusually serious or there is a clear and present danger of retaliation, The College of Global Studies has the right to act to separate the parties.

Sex Offenses

Students who are victims of sexual assault are encouraged to consider all appropriate avenues for legal action. If both the victim and the accused are students and the victim chooses to initiate The College of Global Studies at Arcadia University judicial process, the victim will need to meet with the Director or a designated member of the Director's staff. There are informal and formal options for consideration. Informal procedures involve mutually agreed upon resolutions, possibly including mediation. Formal procedures would involve a hearing to adjudicate the violations. The hearings are conducted by the Director or a designated member of the Director's staff. In either the informal or formal hearings, the accused and the accuser need not be present at the same time as determined by the Hearing Officer. In both informal and formal procedures, the sanctions are binding and the students will be held accountable for their actions. The sanctions are the same as for other violations of the Code of Conduct and the Arcadia University The College of Global Studies regulations.

Appeals in Cases of Discrimination, Harassment and Sexual Offenses

Any party in a case who wishes to appeal a disciplinary action or a decision shall present, within one week of the receipt of the decision, his or her request in writing to the Vice President of The College of Global Studies at Arcadia University. Appeals to the Vice President may be made only on the grounds that an error was made which affected the outcome of the case. The letter requesting a hearing by the Vice President shall state the basis or reasons for the appeal.

Alcohol and Other Drugs

Introduction

The primary mission of Arcadia University is to educate students, in and out of the classroom, to prepare them for life in a rapidly changing global society. We recognize that alcohol and other drugs are part of this global society and therefore approach the issue of substance use in a way that educates while holding students accountable for their actions and for the laws of the United States and the country in which they are living and studying. We also know that alcohol and other drug abuse can interfere with a student's ability to fully participate in the educational mission of the University and that alcohol and other drug abuse is the number one health problem on college campuses and study abroad programs. Our primary appeal to students who choose to drink is that they make legal and low-risk choices that do not interfere with their overall health or their ability to take full advantage of the opportunities offered to them at the University and study abroad program.

The illegal use of drugs and the illegal and reckless use of alcohol in our society is a serious problem. Substance use and abuse can be life-threatening. It can lead to a substantial loss of quality in a person's life and in the lives of those around him or her.

The Drug-Free Workplace Act of 1988 (P.L. 100-690) and the Drug-Free Schools and Communities Act Amendments of 1989 (P.O. 101-206) require that each college and university receiving federal financial assistance annually provide the following information in writing to all students and employees: 1) standards of conduct; 2) legal sanctions; 3) health risks; 4) available treatment; 5) the University's disciplinary sanctions.

In accordance with the above legislation, the following information is presented for your knowledge.

Arcadia University Standards of Conduct Regarding Alcohol and Drugs

Arcadia University and The College of Global Studies prohibit the unlawful possession, use, distribution or sale of illicit drugs and alcohol by students and employees on University property or at University-sponsored events.

Arcadia University and The College of Global Studies do not encourage the use of alcohol. However, consistent with state law in Pennsylvania and the laws of the various host countries in which its overseas programs are located, The College of Global Studies at Arcadia University permits the lawful use and moderate consumption of alcoholic beverages by individuals who are legally entitled to drink. The University considers intoxication, disorderly or offensive behavior deriving from the use of alcoholic beverages to be subject to disciplinary action, regardless of age. No other drugs, only those medications that are properly prescribed, in the original container for the person prescribed, and used in the manner prescribed, are permitted.

Alcohol and Drug Violations (Refers to all students regardless of age)

The following are violations that may result in disciplinary action and may include sanctions such as loss of residential privileges, probation, suspension or expulsion:

1. The possession, consumption, purchase, attempt to purchase, or transportation of alcohol by anyone under legal drinking age on property owned, leased or controlled by Arcadia University;
2. The furnishing of alcohol to individuals under legal drinking age;
3. The sale, possession, production, purchase, or use of any controlled substance or illegal drug on University premises or at University-sponsored activities; possession of drug paraphernalia used for illegal drugs;
4. The consumption or distribution of alcohol in public places or buildings on Arcadia University premises;
5. The abuse of alcohol that includes but is not limited to the following:
 - a. Violent acts against persons or property
 - b. Drunkenness
 - c. Contributing to the abuse by another
 - d. Driving under the influence
 - e. Medical emergencies such as excessive consumption or injury while drinking
 - f. Drinking contests, drinking funnels, and games and multiple shots are considered to be especially dangerous and may be considered abuse of alcohol.

Consequences of Alcohol or Other Drug Abuse often include the following:

- vehicular accidents
- injuries such as broken bones or burns
- violence, assault, property damage
- alcohol or drug poisoning
- aspiration of one's vomit
- addiction
- broken relationships
- failure or poor performance at school
- sexual assault, date rape, unwanted pregnancy, sexually-transmitted diseases, including the HIV virus.

Substance Use and Sexual Behavior

Substance use and risky sexual behavior are closely linked. There is evidence that sexually transmitted diseases, date rape, pregnancy, bad relationships, and loss of self-respect frequently relate to the use of alcohol or other drugs and sex. We encourage all students to make choices regarding sexual behavior when not under the influence of alcohol or other drugs.

Searches

Arcadia's responsibility to protect its buildings and property necessitates a right to enter a student's room. University employees may conduct a search in student housing for, among other things, inspection, or repair, and insurance of compliance with federal, state, and local criminal laws, and University policies where there is cause to believe that a violation has occurred.

Arcadia University The College of Global Studies Events Outside University Premises

Students are advised that the Arcadia University does not condone problematic or underage drinking at The College of Global Studies events and activities, and reserves the right to discipline cases which are called to its attention. Students involved in any incident may be subject to disciplinary action under certain circumstances. Any disciplinary action will be administered in the same way as for violations of the Student Code of Conduct, with the same range of penalties, including warning, probation, interim suspension, restitution, dismissal from student housing, permission to withdraw and expulsion from program.

Legal Use of Alcohol for Students

Students of legal age may consume alcohol at approved functions, such as receptions, meals and other Arcadia-sponsored events: Only those of legal drinking age will be served (proof of age required). No one who is intoxicated or under the influence of other drugs will be served. They will also be refused admission. No alcohol can be brought into any event nor leave the premises.

Any disciplinary action will be administered in the same way as for violations of the Student Code of Conduct, with the same range of penalties, including warning, probation, interim suspension, restitution, dismissal from student housing, permission to withdraw and expulsion from program.

Laws Regulating Use of Alcohol and Other Drugs

Financial Aid Implications of Drug Offenses

Effective July 1, 2000, a conviction in a state or federal court for a drug-related offense will result in a student losing eligibility for federal financial aid.

Health Risks

1. Alcohol

Alcohol consumption causes a number of marked changes in behavior. Even low doses significantly impair the judgment and coordination required to drive a car safely. Low to moderate doses also increase the incidence of a variety of aggressive acts. Moderate to high doses of alcohol cause marked impairments in higher mental function, severely altering a person's ability to learn and remember information. Very high doses cause respiratory depression and death. If combined with other depressants of the central nervous system, much lower doses of alcohol will produce the effects just described. Repeated use of alcohol can lead to dependence. Sudden cessation of alcohol intake is likely to produce withdrawal symptoms, including severe anxiety, tremors, hallucinations and convulsions. Alcohol withdrawal can be life-threatening. Long-term consumption of large quantities of alcohol, particularly when combined with poor nutrition, can also lead to permanent damage to vital organs such as the brain and the liver.

Mothers who drink alcohol during pregnancy may give birth to infants with fetal alcohol syndrome. These infants have irreversible physical abnormalities and mental retardation. In addition, research indicates that children of alcoholic parents are at greater risk than others of becoming alcoholics.

2. Cannabis

Use of cannabis is often accompanied by sleepiness, wandering mind, craving for sweets, increased appetite, and time and space distortion. Sometimes a panic attack or paranoia occurs. It may impair short-term memory and comprehension. It also reduces ability to perform tasks requiring coordination and concentration such as driving a car. It is very irritating to the lungs and contains more cancer-causing agents than tobacco. Use during pregnancy can lead to low birth weight and damage to fetus.

Long-term users may develop psychological dependence and require more of the drug to get high. In the case of heavy users, it becomes the center of their lives.

3. Inhalants

The immediate negative effects of inhalants include nausea, sneezing, coughing, nosebleeds, fatigue, lack of coordination, and loss of appetite. Solvents and aerosol sprays also decrease the heart and respiratory rates and impair judgment. Amyl and Butyl nitrate cause rapid pulse, headaches, and involuntary passing of urine and feces. Long-term use may result in hepatitis or brain damage.

Deeply inhaling the vapors, or using large amounts over a short time, may result in disorientation, violent behavior, unconsciousness, or death. High concentrations of inhalants can cause suffocation by displacing the oxygen in the lungs or by depressing the central nervous system to the point that breathing stops.

Long-term use causes weight loss, fatigue, electrolyte imbalance, and muscle fatigue. Repeated sniffing of concentrated vapors over time can permanently damage the nervous system.

4. Cocaine

Cocaine stimulates the central nervous system. Its immediate effects include dilated pupils and elevated blood pressure, heart rate, and body temperature. Occasional use can cause a stuffy or runny nose. Chronic use can ulcerate the mucous membrane of the nose. Injecting cocaine with contaminated equipment can cause AIDS, hepatitis, and other diseases. Cocaine can produce psychological and physical dependency, a feeling that the user cannot function without the drug. This often happens rapidly. Crack or free base rock is extremely addictive, and its effects are felt within 10 seconds. Physical effects include: dilated pupils, increased pulse rate, elevated blood pressure, insomnia, loss of appetite, tactile hallucination, paranoia and seizures. The use of cocaine can cause death by cardiac arrest or respiratory failure.

5. Other Stimulants

Stimulants can cause increased heart and respiratory rates, elevated blood pressure, dilated pupils, and decreased appetite. In addition, users may experience sweating, headaches, blurred vision, dizziness, sleeplessness, and anxiety. Extremely high doses can cause a rapid or irregular heartbeat, tremors, loss of coordination, and even physical collapse. Users report feelings of restlessness, anxiety and mood swings. Persons who use large amounts of amphetamines over a long period of time can develop an amphetamine psychosis that includes hallucinations, delusions and paranoia. These symptoms usually disappear when drug use ceases.

6. Depressants

The effects of depressants are similar to alcohol. Small amounts can produce calmness and relaxed muscles, but larger doses can cause slurred speech, staggering gait and altered perception. Very large doses cause respiratory depression, coma and death. The combination of depressants and alcohol can multiply the effects of the drugs, thereby multiplying the risks. The use of depressants can cause both physical and psychological dependence. Regular use over time may result in a tolerance to the drug, leading the user to increase the quantity consumed. When regular users suddenly stop taking large doses, they may develop withdrawal symptoms ranging from restlessness, insomnia, and anxiety to convulsions and death. Babies born to mothers who abuse depressants during pregnancy may be physically dependent on the drugs and show withdrawal symptoms shortly after they are born. Birth defects and behavioral problems also may result.

7. Hallucinogens

Phencyclidine (PCP) interrupts the functions of the neocortex, the section of the brain that controls the intellect and keeps instinct in check. Because the drug blocks pain receptors, violent PCP episodes may result in self-inflicted injuries. The effects of PCP vary, but users frequently report a sense of distance and estrangement. Time and body movement are slowed down. Muscular coordination worsens and senses are dulled. Speech is blocked and incoherent. Chronic users of PCP report persistent memory problems and speech difficulties. Some of these effects may last 6 months to a year, following prolonged daily use. Mood disorders—depression, anxiety and violent behavior—also occur. In later stages of chronic use, users often exhibit paranoid and violent behavior and experience hallucinations. Large doses may produce convulsions and coma, as well as heart and lung failure.

Lysergic acid (LSD), mescaline and psilocybin cause illusions and hallucinations. The physical effects may include dilated pupils, elevated body temperature, increased heart rate and blood pressure, loss of appetite, sleeplessness, and tremors. Sensations and feelings may change rapidly. It is common to have a bad psychological reaction to LSD, mescaline and psilocybin.

The user may experience panic, confusion, suspicion, anxiety and loss of control. Delayed effects or flashbacks can occur even after use has ceased.

Some depressants that produce amnesia, such as Rohypnol or GHB, may be involved in rape cases.

8. Narcotics

Narcotics initially produce a feeling of euphoria that often is followed by drowsiness, nausea and vomiting. Users also may experience constricted pupils, watery eyes, and itching. An overdose may produce slow and shallow breathing, clammy skin, convulsions, coma, and possible death. Tolerance to narcotics develops rapidly and dependence is likely. The use of contaminated syringes may result in diseases such as AIDS, endocarditis, and hepatitis. Addiction in pregnant women can lead to premature, stillborn or addicted infants who experience severe withdrawal symptoms.

9. Designer Drugs

Illegal drugs are defined in terms of their chemical formulas. To circumvent these legal restrictions, underground chemists modify the molecular structure of certain illegal drugs to produce analogues known as designer drugs. These drugs can be several hundred times stronger than the drugs they are designed to imitate.

Many of the so-called designer drugs are related to amphetamines and have mild stimulant properties but are mostly euphoriant. They can produce severe neurochemical damage to the brain.

The narcotic analogues can cause symptoms such as those seen in Parkinson's disease; uncontrollable tremors, drooling, impaired speech, paralysis and irreversible brain damage. Analogues of amphetamines and methamphetamine cause nausea, blurred vision, chills or sweating, and faintness. Psychological effects include anxiety, depression and paranoia. As little as one dose can cause brain damage. The analogues of phencyclidine cause illusions, hallucinations and impaired perception.

Drugs used in combination are also extremely risky.

The College of Global Studies at Arcadia University reserves the right to discipline students who violate the drug policy. Any disciplinary action will be administered in the same way as for violations of the Student Code of Conduct, with the same range of penalties, including warning, probation, interim suspension, restitution, dismissal from student housing, permission to withdraw and expulsion from program.

University Computer Abuse Policy

Responsible use of computer technology on campus is expected of all students, academic, program and administrative staff. Failure to do so will result in an investigation by the CIO or the Arcadia Information Technology staff. After a hearing, suspension of computer resource privileges may occur.

Examples of computer abuse include:

- Unauthorized attempt to modify computer equipment or peripherals. Unauthorized attempt to add/delete/change software, such as games, graphics, operating systems, compilers, utility routines.
- Use of an account without proper authorization from the owner of the account.
- Reading or using private files, including the University's administrative or academic files, without proper authorization, or changing or deleting private files belonging to another user without proper authorization.
- Violations of property rights and copyrights in data and computer programs. Use of software or social media to communicate offensive or obscene messages to other users of the system or any other form of harassment.
- The use of any Arcadia University PC for copying licensed or copyrighted software (whether the software is owned by the University or not) is strictly prohibited.
- Copying University-owned licensed or copyrighted software on any other PC. Arcadia University Computer Lab consultants/operators are authorized to monitor and report such violations.

Loss or Damage Statement

The College of Global Studies at Arcadia University is not responsible for the loss of students' property because of fire, theft, water damage, or other causes. It is suggested that the students obtain insurance against loss by fire, theft or other causes before attending the program, and/or before moving into living accommodations overseas.
