

A Time for Exploration: Local Connections and Global Discoveries

Arcadia University students are world travelers and global citizens who take an active role in their communities. Students in the Local Connections and Global Discoveries community explore their role locally, nationally, and globally through programs designed to help them engage with and understand those communities.

Students will want to participate in this community if they:

- Desire to explore the local community and the Greater Philadelphia area
- Plan to participate in the FYSAE or Preview programs and want to engage with other world explorers
- Seek to better understand their role in a global society
- Are interested in community service and civic engagement

ARCADIA UNIVERSITY

Topics explored in this community include:

- Study abroad and study away opportunities
- Etiquette for world travelers
- Use of local public transportation systems
- Civic engagement and community service
