

Education Career Resources

Are you interested in teaching K-12 students after graduation?

If you want to work at a public school, you will need to obtain state licensing and certification. You can obtain state certification through Arcadia's School of Education, or you can become certified in any state through alternative certification programs. You should visit a state's Department of Education website to learn the specific teaching requirements of that state. Alternatively, if you want to work at a private/independent/parochial school, most schools will not require that you obtain state licensing.

RESOURCES FOR ALL STUDENTS SEEKING EMPLOYMENT IN EDUCATION

The websites below provide job listings for private/independent/parochial schools. These schools create their own criteria for teachers, and many do not demand certification from their teachers.
