

ANNA SPASCHAK '21

Anna is a proud graduate of Arcadia University, who exemplifies a deep commitment to the University community through her volunteerism, philanthropy, and dedication to student engagement. Previously, Anna served as the Chair of the Student Engagement and Experience Alumni Committee. Under her leadership, the committee achieved a significant milestone by creating the “The Knights Companion Code,” a resource provided to incoming students that showcases the multitude of programs and opportunities available to them at Arcadia. Her work ensures that students feel welcomed, informed, and connected from their first days on campus. Additionally, Anna actively serves as a member of the Young Alumni Committee, where she contributes to innovative programming and supports efforts to strengthen the University’s alumni network.

An active member of the Arcadia alumni community, Anna has embraced every opportunity to contribute to the well-being of Arcadia’s future. She generously gives her time as a mentor in Arcadia’s mentorship program, offering guidance and support to current students and recent graduates. Her contributions reflect her passion for fostering meaningful relationships across the Arcadia community and her commitment to empowering future generations of leaders.

In her professional life, Anna has built an impressive career in higher education. With roles ranging from Program Coordinator for Special Populations in the Center for New Student and Family Programs at the University of Florida to her experience as a Graduate Assistant in the Office of Admissions at The University of South Carolina, she has demonstrated a steadfast commitment to student success and development. She has overseen orientation programs, first-year experience initiatives, and international, transfer, and online student engagement. In these roles, her expertise shines through in her creation of inclusive and impactful programs for diverse student populations. Her professional foundation aligns seamlessly with her vision for advancing Arcadia’s mission and supporting its strategic goals. Anna understands the power of alumni engagement and seeks to inspire others to remain involved, ensuring that Arcadia continues to thrive.
